Property Description

Casa GG is a three-bedroom residence with a separate one-bedroom casita, conceived through an artistic lens and set against a forest backdrop. Thoughtfully integrated into its natural surroundings, the home was designed with the gardens as a central element—native plants, flowering species, and layered greenery wrap the architecture, creating a continuous dialogue between indoors and out. A refined green exterior anchors the house into the landscape, giving it a distinctive and quietly confident presence. The main house offers three comfortable bedrooms, while the independent casita with kitchenette adds flexibility for guests or extended family. Finishes and design details have been carefully considered throughout, resulting in spaces that feel balanced, intentional, and easy to inhabit. This is a family home that also holds strong rental potential, appealing to those drawn to character, privacy, and connection to nature.
