Property Description

True privacy is rare; on this property, it is geographically guaranteed. Located 415 meters (1,360 ft) above the heat of the coast, this unique titled estate sits in a strategic "protection gap": bordered by the Golfito National Wildlife Refuge on one side and Inder lands on the other. Your neighbors aren't just quiet—they are permanent forest reserves. This is a very large parcel of 68 hectares or 168 acres! While the setting offers absolute solitude, you are never isolated. Just minutes down the mountain, the town of Golfito comes alive with a vibrant nightlife, diverse restaurants, and bars. For the maritime enthusiast, the new world-class marina and legendary sport fishing grounds are right at your doorstep. You can battle a marlin by day, dine at the marina by sunset, and retreat to your cool mountain hideaway by night. The heavy lifting is already underway with a roughed-in access road and cleared building site (plantel).
