Property Description

The Southern Pacific region of Costa Rica is known for its pristine beaches, towering coastal mountains and the greatest biodiversity IN THE WORLD. This wonderful house, suspended amongst the canopies, puts you right in the middle of a tropical rainforest in this world-famous ecoregion. Surrounded by sparkling streams, hidden swim holes, river canyons, towering trees, imposing mountains and lush wilderness, the sights and sounds of nature are ever-present. Macaws, toucans, monkeys, sloths, tapirs, poison dart frogs, and buzzing blue morpho butterflies are just some of the neighbors while the waters of the nearby Pacific teem with fish, dolphins, sea turtles, and visiting Humpback Whales. This nature-immersed home shamelessly peeks its head into the jungle canopies, giving a very unique glimpse into the living forest. Perched on the side of ridge, the home is accessed via a gangway which seemingly transports you into a magical world.
